PORTRAIT VOUCHER SECRETARY KNOX FAILS TO SOLVE THE PUZZLE

The Appearance of the Secretary Before the Committee Is Occasion for Some Cautious Remarks on His Part. Tells Committee That the Matter is 'Being Played Up' Well--Clears Hale Voucher Matter.

PRODUCES LONG LOST PAPERS

Denies Direct Knowledge of Mixup Over Purchase of Day Portrait and Repeats Testimony Furnished by Consul Michael at Calcutta—Declares That Voucher For $5,000 Given to Hale Was Irregular, but That Claim Was Perfectly Just.

Washington, June 15.—As he sat in himself in the witness chair before the committee that is investigating expenditures in the state department, Secretary Knox repeated to Chairman Hamlin: "You've played this up in first-class style. If you ever get out of congress you ought to manage a theatrical company."

Secretary Knox was referring particularly to the Democratic chairman's conduct of the inquiry into the so-called day portrait case. Mr. Knox thereupon laid before the committee the longest voucher for $2,450 and other documents in the case that have not previously been made after being missing for five years.

Secretary Knox acknowledged that the only information the department had was Mr. Michael's own statement as to the expenditure.

The documents submitted by Secretary Knox threw no definite light upon the final disposition of the $1,600 that was paid out by the treasury on the voucher over and beyond the $500 charged by Albert Rosenthal, the Philadelphia artist, for painting the portrait of William R. Day then secretary of state, and now associate justice of the supreme court.

Artist Rosenthal submitted a bill for only $850 and signed a voucher in blank, which was filled in for $2,450 without Rosenthal's knowledge.

Michael's Letter Is Read.

A letter from William H. Michael, who was chief clerk of the state department at the time and who in the first instance received the $2,450, says that the difference was turned over to Secretary of State John Hay to pay confidential accounts of the state department, as he recalls it, in connection with Chinese negotiations. The entire amount, $2,650, was drawn from a fund authorized for expenditures of a confidential character, and for which the secretary of state is required to make no public accounting. Mr. Michael adds that the signing of the voucher by Rosenthal must have been an inadvertence, as it was to have been signed by Michael himself. Mr. Michael is now consul at Calcutta.

Mr. Knox acknowledged that the voucher for the Hale payment of $5,000 lacked regularity in that it was not signed by him, but merely bore his name on a slip of paper. As to the payment itself, however, it was, Secretary Knox declared, entirely regular and proper, and members of the committee showed no disposition to question this statement.

Conservatives Organize Will Conduct Campaign

Will Combat "isms" in Constitutional Convention.

Columbus, O., June 15.—To meet the activities of radicals and advocates of "isms" the conservative voters of the state are to conduct a constitutional educational campaign. The Ohio state board of commerce has been selected as the organization under the auspices of which the conservative propaganda is to be conducted.

The fight for a conservative convention and constitution is not to be limited to members of the Ohio state board of commerce, but according to plans just announced, will include all business and professional men, farmers and wage-earners.

The executive committee of the state board of commerce has given its unqualified approval to the proposition to carry on an active educational campaign in the interest of a conservative constitution for Ohio. This committee is composed of Edward L. Buchwalter, Springfield; Allen R. Foote, Columbus; H. E. Hackenberg, Cleveland; James J. Heckin, Cincinnati; George E. Pomeroi, Toledo; Leopold Rauh, Dayton; Samuel Scovill, Cleveland; Gilbert W. Yost, Belleaire.

A special finance committee to raise funds and conduct the campaign has been named as follows:

Edward L. Buchwalter, Springfield, president of the American Seeding Machine company, president the Citizens' National bank; George E. Pomeroi, Toledo, president the George E. Pomeroi Real Estate company, president First National bank, Bellevue; Samuel Scovill, Cleveland, member finance committee Society for Savings, director Peerless Motor company, vice president and treasurer the Cleveland Electric Illuminating company, treasurer for the fund, Edwin R. Sharp, Columbus, president State Savings Bank and Trust company.

It is pointed out that by far the most important proposition confronting the people of the state of Ohio is the constitutional convention which will be convened in January next.

Delegates to this convention will be named at the November election. Nominations will be by petition and the election will be on nonpartisan ballots.

DEATH RIDES IN AUTO

Cousin of Taft's Secretary Killed While Out on Lark.

Omaha, Neb., June 15.—Wayne Moore, cousin of Charles D. Hillis, secretary to President Taft, died in an Omaha hospital as the result of a joy ride which he, together with one male and three female friends, took late Monday night.

Moore, who was married a few months ago to an Omaha heiress, went for a joy ride. His friend, Lem Hill, and three mysterious women, whose identity is being withheld, went along. Some time after midnight all five were discovered near Waterloo, Neb., unconscious. The automobile had been wrecked.

Harmon Fails To Sign The Utilities Bill

Utilities Measure Becomes Law by Default Vote.

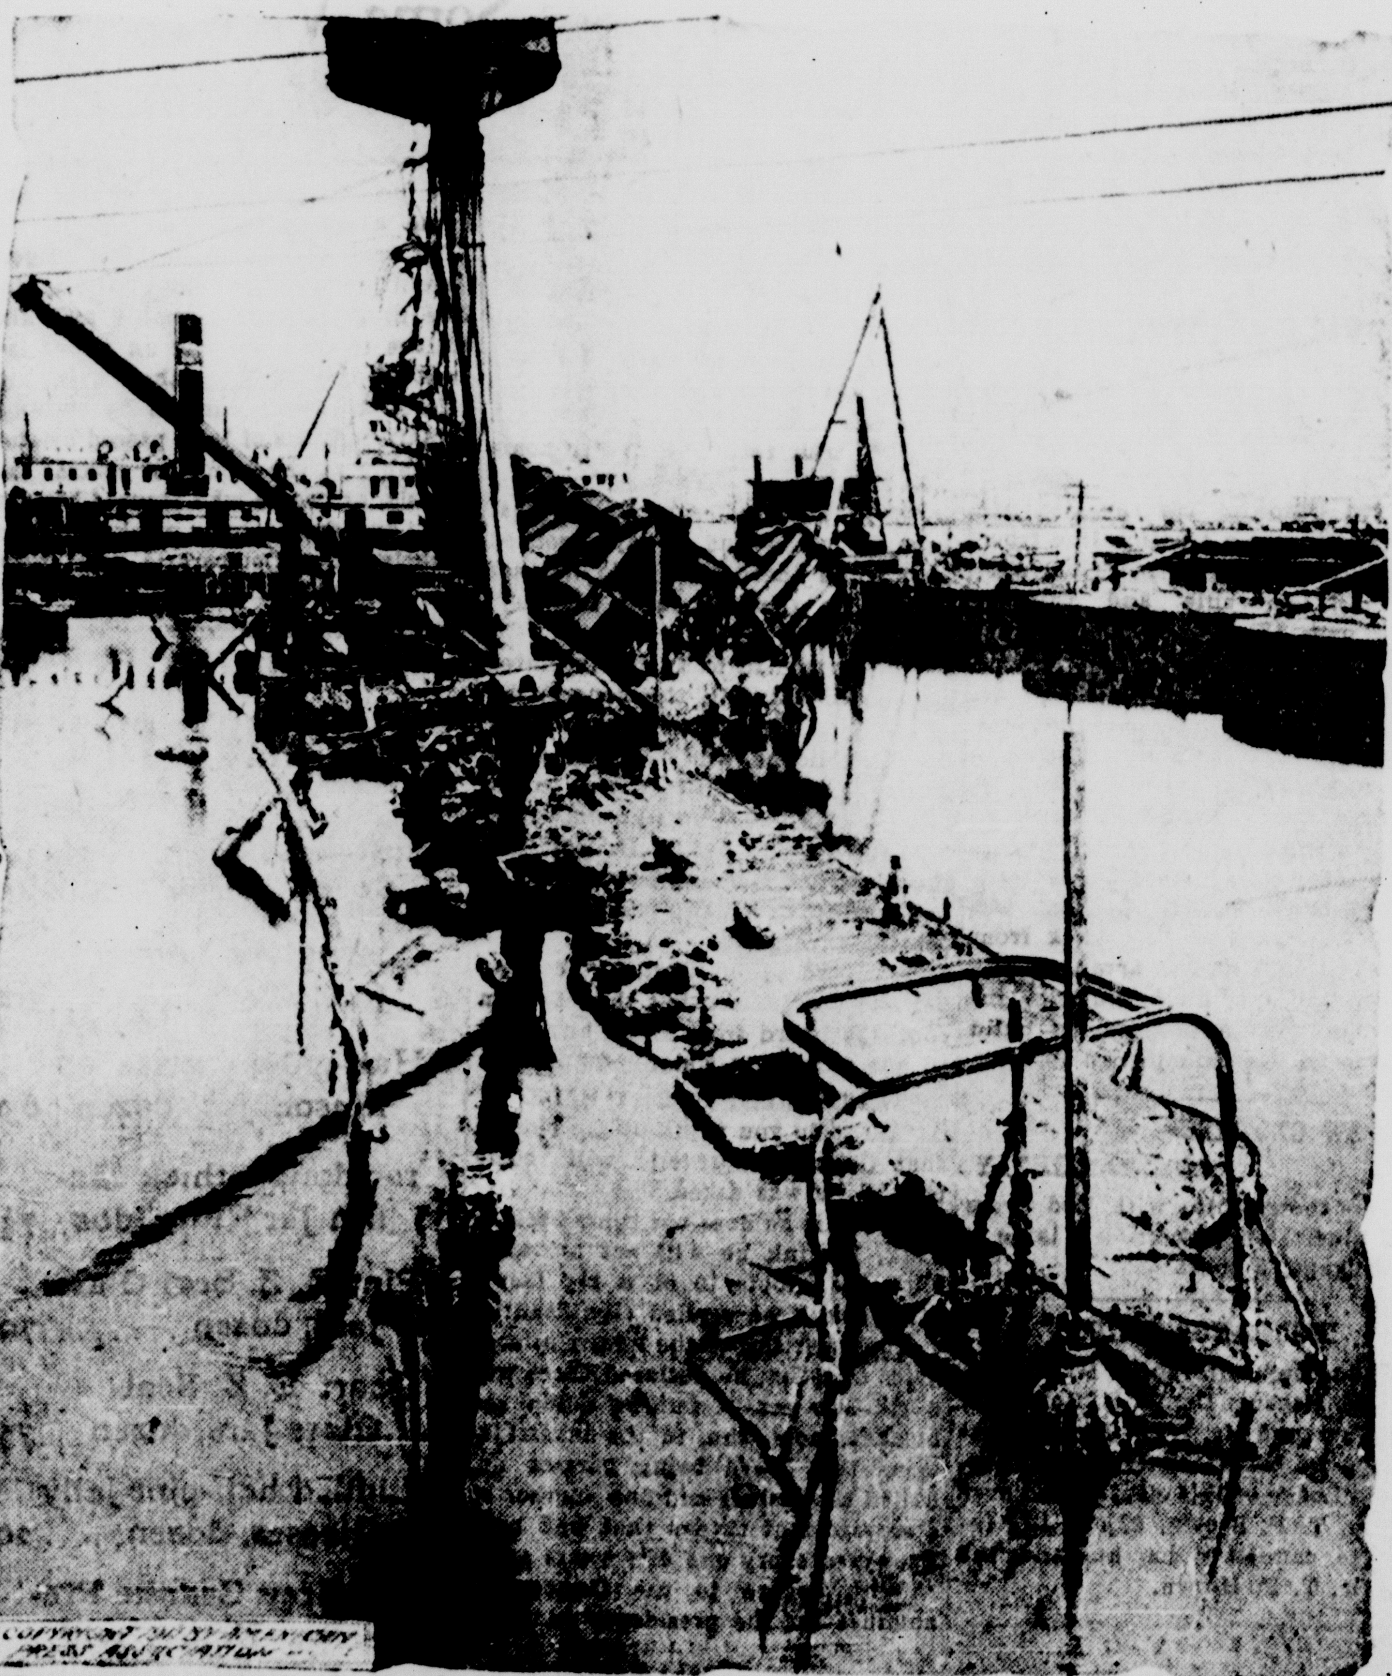

Columbus, O., June 15.—Governor Harmon refused to sign the utilities commission bill to become a law without his signature. He also permitted the country appropriation measure among others to become a law. He signed three of the four appropriation bills. If the governor has further vetoes in mind he must exercise them today, else the first day of the session will become a law without his signature.

Signs I. & R. Measure.
Columbus, O., June 15.—Governor Harmon has signed the Crosser city initiative and referendum bill. He also signed the Benson building code bill.

Fight For Niagara Falls.
Washington, June 15.—With $40,000 of capital fighting to secure unlimited right to divert Niagara Falls for power purposes and defeat a bill by Senator Burton to continue the present restrictions which expire on June 25, a hot fight is in progress here.

Fortune Teller in Trouble.
Lima, O., June 15.—Police are in position of severity at the scene of a Sign company during the day and operating through the mails to the dame Labelle, fortune teller, from her bedroom at night. Miss Clara Longmeier, 25, talented young business woman was arrested by United States postoffice officials, charged with using the mails to defraud.

Uncovering the Wreck of the Battleship Maine Sunk In Havana Harbor Thirteen Years Ago.

This remarkable photograph shows the barnacle incrustated wreck of the battleship Maine being brought to view in Havana harbor, where she was sunk in 1898. After it has been determined just what caused the explosion which sank the battleship and cost 259 lives the remains probably will be given a sea burial. The sinking of the Maine will be generally remembered as having directly caused the war with Spain because of the suspicion that the battleship was blown up by a mine. Whether this was the case or whether the disaster was caused by an interior explosion will now soon be known. At the right in the picture is shown a portion of the cofferdam, from which an idea may be got as to the amount of water already pumped out from around the wreck.

GUNBOAT IS SENT AFTER THE ELUSIVE CASTRO VENEZUELAN STILL BUSY

Secretary of State is Worried at Conduct of the Spectacular ex-President of the South American Republic, Who "Bobs Up Serenely" at Most Inopportune Times.

New York Grapegrower Murdered

Bullet-Riddled Body Found in His Vineyard.

Dunkirk, N. Y., June 15.—With a bullet wound in the head and another in the body, Reuben B. Pooler, an extensive grape grower of Brocton, was found murdered in a ravine in his vineyard, a mile from his home in the village. The body lay face down in a pool of blood and from the appearance of the underbrush it is believed that Mr. Pooler was shot about half way up the side, while either climbing up from the ravine or descending into it. When wounded he fell in a huddled heap to the bottom. His pockets were turned wrong side out.

SEVERAL NATIONS INTERESTED

Vessel on Which Mischiefmaker Is Reported to Be Making For Native Health For Purpose of Starting Revolt Against President Gomez Will Be Searched If Intercepted in Haitian Waters—Former Ruler Will Be Elephant on Uncle Sam's Hands.

Washington, June 15.—Cipriano Castro, the exiled president of Venezuela, threatens to become a white elephant on the hands of the state department. Officials are as greatly puzzled over the question of what to do in case they come upon him as they were in the last place over the question of how to rid the western hemisphere of his presence.

It was decided that one of the gunboats now in the Caribbean shall be ordered to Haitian waters to take a look at the converted gunboat Consul Grosbeck, that is officially reported as having Castro on board.

Since this ship appeared at Port de Paix the state department has consulted by cable with the foreign governments interested, and an understanding has been reached that in case of Castro's attempt to land, action similar to that taken at Trinidad shall be resorted to.

It is expected that the American gunboat will be able to assist in identifying the proper nationality of the ship on which Castro is casting about as a soldier of fortune, but it has not been decided as to what action can be taken by the American vessel, even if Castro is sufficiently identified and the ship is found to be flying the German flag without authority.

Since France, Great Britain, Holland and Germany are all agreed with the United States that Castro shall not be allowed to land in the neighborhood of Venezuela, on the ground that he is an undesirable citizen, it seems reasonably certain that he will not have the opportunity for some time to come of stirring up a revolution to gain the ascendancy in his native country.

Castro In Sore Straits.

Castro's predicament, it appears, will be almost as sad as that of a castaway on a desert island, waiting for a ship to pick him up. He will be a castaway at sea with land everywhere, but no place to get ashore.

About two years ago, shortly after Castro had been driven out of Venezuela, he was discovered on a French tramp steamer headed for his native land. President Gomez of Venezuela informed the powers that he would be able to take care of the exile if a landing were attempted, and the French government agreed to his arrest if he left the ship at Laguayra. Castro suddenly turned in at Trinidad, however, and the British government, acting on the agreement, pushed him out to sea, so to speak.

From there he went to Martinique, which was presumably a port of call of the steamer, and he was denied a landing by the French authorities there. From there he drifted back across the Atlantic and was reported to have made his way secretly from the Canary Islands up through Europe, where he is supposed to have financed the present expedition for the purpose of overthrowing President Gomez, who succeeded him.

Machinist Killed by Train.

Skelley's Station, O., June 15.—J. E. Carr, 30, an expert machinist, whose home was in Newark, was run down by a Panhandle passenger train near here and instantly killed. The man was en route to Steubenville, where he was engaged in work.

Strikers Parade Streets.

Cleveland, O., June 15.—Five thousand striking garment workers and their sympathizers, marching two abreast, moved through Cleveland's streets in a great peace parade. It marked the eighth day of the strike.

NOT VERY ENTHUSIASTIC

Seamen's Strike Seems to Lack Unity of Purpose.

London, June 15.—The seamen's strike has spread from London, Glasgow and South Shields to Middlesbrough, Belfast, Bristol, Cardiff, Swansea, Manchester and Newcastle. Several hundred have handed in notices, but hitherto there has been an absence of unity and enthusiasm. Bristol has not responded and only 40 responded at Newcastle. Whether the strike will become serious can not yet be told.

TRAIN STRIKES AUTOMOBILE AT NORTH STREET CROSSING DRIVER LEAPS TO SAFETY

North street B. & O. crossing was the scene of another accident which nearly cost Harry Parrett his life this morning, when a B. & O. freight train struck his automobile and literally tore it to pieces, while Parrett saved himself from death by leaping from the machine in time to save himself from injury.

Mr. Parrett, who for years has been drilling wells throughout the county, had owned the automobile, a runabout, but a short time, was moving along at a fair rate of speed, and as he neared the North street crossing could not hear the warning bell and supposed the crossing was clear.

He kept his machine moving, and had approached to within a few feet of the switch when he discovered a freight train backing down upon him. He was too close to stop, and the train was too close for him to cross the track in front of it, and in a twinkling the train caught the car almost in the middle. Mr. Parrett leaped for his life and landed in safety out of harm's way, but his auto was twisted and shattered so that it is practically worthless.

A number of boys in the neighborhood who saw the accident, say the warning bell was not ringing, and as there is no watchman at that point and the train was on the side-track, condition of affairs was very dangerous.

Mr. Parrett's escape from death was a narrow one, and while the loss of his machine means much to him, he is thankful that the accident was no worse. He may bring suit for damages against the railroad company.

Activity Renewed In Frey Traction

Harry Frey, famous through southern Ohio for his repeated attempts to secure a traction line from Cincinnati to Springfield via Wilmington, Cedarville and Clifton, passed over the route again a few days ago with a corps of engineers, and assured those with whom he came in contact that the prospects for building the road were bright.

Frey, who is backed in the deal by promoter and capitalist, Farneding, has been working on the above mentioned route for years, and it is probably through his efforts that the Baker traction was held back from building to Clifton, as arrangements were progressing nicely until he interrupted with a proposal to build the line he has championed so long.

Ex-Congressman Keifer Expresses Some Views Thinks Harmon Out of Running

The Springfield Sun of Thursday morning publishes the following interview with Ex-Congressman J. Warren Keifer:

"What about this statement by John L. Zimmerman, made in Washington, that you would be returned from this district?" was asked the general, who returned to his home yesterday.

"Well, I have been in congress fourteen years and always worked hard while there, and I do not see what more there is in it for me," he replied.

When asked to what he attributed his defeat last fall, the general declared it was a stay-at-home vote of the Republicans, who remained away from the polls in this district to the number of 7,000. To illustrate this, he pointed out that J. D. Post, his successful opponent, received 2,000 less votes than his two previous Democratic adversaries.

In regard to Mr. Post, he declared that he was honest, but that no man could be heard from or do any good in one term as a congressman.

TEDDY MUST HURRY BACK.

"What do you think of the chance that Colonel Roosevelt will come back?" he was asked.

"Well, if he does not come back in 1912, I think he will get too stale with the people to be a big factor after that," he replied significantly.

Then drifting to the affairs of congress of today, he declared there was a shiftless set of fellows doing the business now who, in the investigations that were being carried on, hailed themselves and one another as discoverers of things that had been known to every one fifty years ago.

With regard to the Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1912, the general declared that Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, appeared to have the call at present, though a political breeze may snuff out his light in a minute and give Speaker Champ Clark a show.

HARMON OUT OF RUNNING.

"A year ago Governor Harmon appeared to be the only logical man,

It has just been made known that the demurrer to the evidence submitted in the case wherein Carson West was charged with intoxication, and which was tried before Mayor Allen last month, has been sustained, and the case against West has been dismissed for lack of evidence introduced by the prosecution.

West, it will be remembered, declined to introduce any evidence to refute the charge made against him, resting the case on the prosecution's own evidence.

Social Circles.

Grounded upon the principles embodied in the stars and stripes, it is deeply fitting that the Daughters of the American Revolution pay special tribute to "Flag Day."

Yesterday it was with a charming kensington at the home of Miss Augusta Adams, with the additional hostesses, Mrs. Fuller Hies, Misses Corda McCafferty, Haidee Van Winkle, Grace Ogle and Lucy Brownell.

The intention had been to entertain with a garden party, and the large lawn with its fine old trees, had been decked in flags and bunting. But the weather clerk is strenuously opposed to anything in the line of garden parties and the rain caused a change in the plans.

Everyone enjoyed the social features of the afternoon and the delectable collation served.

The merry young people spent the evening in playing games, in music, and a general good time. Dainty refreshments were served. Miss Edna received quite a number of handsome presents.

Among those who attended from this city were Mr. E. A. Klever and wife and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Durlinger.

A Coral Pipe.

While a United States warship was off Barbados a few years ago a sailor who was amusing himself fishing for sharks brought up from the depths a long "churchwarden" pipe that evidently had been lying at the bottom of the sea for a hundred years or more. It was unbroken and had either been accidentally dropped overboard or washed out of some old wreck. The coral insects had seized upon it and covered the long stem with delicate, lacelike branches and the bowl with fine "vermicelli" work. So completely was it concealed with the coral coating that it was impossible to determine the original material of the pipe. Oddly enough, the inside of the bowl had been left untouched and still showed the stains of fire and nicotine.—New York Press

TRAIN STRIKES AUTOMOBILE AT NORTH STREET CROSSING DRIVER LEAPS TO SAFETY

North street B. & O. crossing was the scene of another accident which nearly cost Harry Parrett his life this morning, when a B. & O. freight train struck his automobile and literally tore it to pieces, while Parrett saved himself from death by leaping from the machine in time to save himself from injury.

Mr. Parrett, who for years has been drilling wells throughout the county, had owned the automobile, a runabout, but a short time, was moving along at a fair rate of speed, and as he neared the North street crossing could not hear the warning bell and supposed the crossing was clear.

He kept his machine moving, and had approached to within a few feet of the switch when he discovered a freight train backing down upon him. He was too close to stop, and the train was too close for him to cross the track in front of it, and in a twinkling the train caught the car almost in the middle. Mr. Parrett leaped for his life and landed in safety out of harm's way, but his auto was twisted and shattered so that it is practically worthless.

A number of boys in the neighborhood who saw the accident, say the warning bell was not ringing, and as there is no watchman at that point and the train was on the side-track, condition of affairs was very dangerous.

Mr. Parrett's escape from death was a narrow one, and while the loss of his machine means much to him, he is thankful that the accident was no worse. He may bring suit for damages against the railroad company.

FINANCE COMMITTEE APPROVES THE MAYOR'S BUDGET RECOMMENDS A FIVE MILL RATE

The Finance Committee of Council, to which the Mayor's Annual Budget was submitted for investigation at the last meeting of Council today filed their report with the Mayor indorsed on the Budget the following:

"We respectfully recommend the rate to be 5 mills. This will raise $2,156 more than is asked for in the budget.

The Budget now goes to the Tax Commission and Sinking Fund Trustees composed of W. H. Dial, R. C. Peddicord, D. S. Craig and George Jackson. If approved by the Tax Commission and Sinking Fund Trustees the Budget is then again reported to Council for final action and if that action is favorable then it passes into the hands of the County Budget Commission, composed of the County Auditor, the Prosecuting Attorney and the Mayor of the city, to be considered along with other budgets and certified levies in making up the entire tax levy for the county.

Ohio Vs. Green Jury Trial Today Felony Case

The State of Ohio vs. Alfred Green, in which Green is charged with receiving stolen property, came up for trial before the jury Thursday and is attracting much attention especially in the Buena Vista neighborhood.

Green was accused of receiving goods which were stolen by boys he sheltered, the boys being sent to the reform school for their part in the affair.

Activity Renewed In Frey Traction

Harry Frey, famous through southern Ohio for his repeated attempts to secure a traction line from Cincinnati to Springfield via Wilmington, Cedarville and Clifton, passed over the route again a few days ago with a corps of engineers, and assured those with whom he came in contact that the prospects for building the road were bright.

Frey, who is backed in the deal by promoter and capitalist, Ferneding, has been working on the above mentioned route for years, and it is probably through his efforts that the Baker traction was held back from building to Clifton, as arrangements were progressing nicely until he interrupted with a proposal to build the line he has championed so long.

Ex-Congressman Keifer Expresses Some Views Thinks Harmon Out of Running

The Springfield Sun of Thursday morning publishes the following interview with Ex-Congressman J. Warren Keifer:

"What about this statement by John L. Zimmerman, made in Washington, that you would be returned from this district?" was asked the general, who returned to his home yesterday.

"Well, I have been in congress fourteen years and always worked hard while there, and I do not see what more there is in it for me," he replied.

When asked to what he attributed his defeat last fall, the general declared it was a stay-at-home vote of the Republicans, who remained away from the polls in this district to the number of 7,000. To illustrate this, he pointed out that J. D. Post, his successful opponent, received 2,000 less votes than his two previous Democratic adversaries.

In regard to Mr. Post, he declared that he was honest, but that no man could be heard from or do any good in one term as a congressman.

TEDDY MUST HURRY BACK.
"What do you think of the chance that Colonel Roosevelt will come back?" he was asked.

"Well, if he does not come back in 1912, I think he will get too stale with the people to be a big factor after that," he replied significantly.

Then drifting to the affairs of congress of today, he declared there was a shiftless set of fellows doing the business now who, in the investigations that were being carried on, hailed themselves and one another as discoverers of things that had been known to every one fifty years ago.

With regard to the Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1912, the general declared that Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, appeared to have the call at present, though a political breeze may snuff out his light in a minute and give Speaker Champ Clark a show.

HARMON OUT OF RUNNING.
"A year ago Governor Harmon appeared to be the only logical man, but he has become unpopular at home and abroad," he declared. "His inability to display the proper executive force to hold his party in line in the recent assembly and his failure to take a stand on moral issues of the day, together with his efforts to redeem himself by vetoing certain sections of laws passed by the assembly at the behest of special interests, or people who secured his ear last, appears to have weakened him greatly as a Democratic possibility for the nomination."

DEMURRER SUSTAINED IN CARSON WEST CASE.

It has just been made known that the demurrer to the evidence submitted in the case wherein Carson West was charged with intoxication, and which was tried before Mayor Allen last month, has been sustained, and the case against West has been dismissed for lack of evidence introduced by the prosecution.

West, it will be remembered, declined to introduce any evidence to refute the charge made against him, resting the case on the prosecution's own evidence.

Social Circles.

Grounded upon the principles embodied in the stars and stripes, it is deeply fitting that the Daughters of the American Revolution pay special tribute to "Flag Day."

Yesterday it was with a charming kensington at the home of Miss Augusta Adams, with the additional hostesses, Mrs. Fuller Hess, Misses Corda McCafferty, Haldee Van Winkle, Grace Ogle and Lucy Brownell.

The intention had been to entertain with a garden party, and the large lawn with its fine old trees, had been decked in flags and bunting. But the weather clerk is strenuously opposed to anything in the line of garden parties and the rain caused a change in the plans.

Everyone enjoyed the social features of the afternoon and the delectable collation served.

The bride is a charming girl and belongs to one of the well-known Madison Mills families.

Both young people take with them the best wishes of a host of friends. They left on the afternoon for their new home in Dayton.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Elsas to the parsonage were the bride's brother and sister.

Birthday Surprise

Fifty-five guests assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Klever, near Yatesville Tuesday night for the purpose of vividly reminding Miss Edna Marie Klever of her 18th birthday anniversary. The party was planned without Miss Klever's knowledge, and the guests were all assembled before she was aware of their presence, consequently the surprise was most complete.

The merry young people spent the evening in playing games, in music, and a general good time. Dainty refreshments were served. Miss Edna received quite a number of handsome presents.

Among those who attended from this city were Mr. E. A. Klever and wife and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Durringer.

Miss Beatty Wins Honors In the South

Beatty, formerly of this city, but now of Atlanta, Georgia, has just completed three years' work in two years, the Decatur school, winning first honor in a large class, and a scholarship in Agnes Scott college. This is a very unusual record as she completed three year's work in two years, and won the honor and scholarship from pupils who had given three years to the studies.

PRACTICE ECONOMY.

The authorities of many counties, townships, school districts and municipalities in Ohio are, this year, confronted with a novel condition—cutting down expenses to keep within the income.

When the matter is considered there is no real reason existing why public corporations and political subdivisions should not do that very thing.

Just why it has never been clearly understood, but there has always existed a belief that public expenditures could be increased without limit, but decreased never.

When an individual suffers a cut in his income he must cut down his expenditures correspondingly. He must do this not as a matter of choice but as a matter of necessity—there is no alternative.

Public officials have always worked on the other plan however, and have made the income to fit the expenses and in this they have been supported in a great measure by the unthinking people who have always acted as though they believed that the public exchequer was filled from some mysterious but never failing money spring; that the supply of this spring never could fail. Consequently all that was necessary to be done was to press on a mysterious button somewhere and—presto—the money was there.

Now it is different. The legislature has placed a limit beyond which taxing officials may not go in extracting dollars from the pockets of the people and under the new plan of raising taxes the receipts this year are going to be materially cut down.

Whether or not in time, matters will so adjust themselves to the new system that a sufficient number of dollars will roll into the treasury to enable us to resume our present and past "high standard of living" is a question which is yet unanswerable. It is certain, however, that in city taxing districts we are going to be shy for some time—until the new system gets to working smoothly, providing it is proven to be a success.

During this period of confusion which must ensue between the time of abandoning the old and establishing the new system, at least we must economize. We must in public affairs come to recognize the rules which control the individual and govern our affairs accordingly.

It is never a pleasant task for a public official to be economical with the public money and strange to say it is not popular.

When an official is face to face with the imperative duty of cutting down the public expenditures to fit the public income and the limit fixed for income has been reached, he is in anything but a pleasant situation. And that is just the situation in which many of our public officials will find themselves for the next year or two.

Consequently every good citizen should restrain himself from overindulgence in that firmly fastened habit of complaining about the officials who do not dish out with lavish hand the public money for those luxuries which too many of us have come to regard as necessities.

There are many luxuries which can be dispensed with, but it will go hard with the people to give up the things they want to have and perhaps some of the things they have.

Be patient with the officials and commend rather than condemn economy, is the only way to give this one per cent. limit law a thorough test.

It is as difficult to convince the people that their income has been in fact curtailed as it is for the indulgent father to convince his family that dollars will not longer come at his beck and call.

Any one who believes that this tax rate, limit law will work smoothly right from the jump will find that he is badly mistaken and a victim of misplaced confidence.

FLAXSEED.

Those who never think of flaxseed in any other connection than as an ingredient of a poultice for boils or bruises, or perchance the vehicle to cart an offending coal cinder out of the eye will stand aghast at the figures the government stands sponsor for showing the magnitude of the flaxseed market.

Listen:

A high record importation of 20 million dollars' worth of flaxseed in the fiscal year 1911 is indicated by the records of the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, now completed for the 10 months ending with April, 1911. During that period the imports of flaxseed or linseed, aggregated $14 million bushels, compared with a little over 3 million bushels last year and 53,000 bushels in the corresponding period of 1909. The growth in value is even greater, the ten months' figures of the current fiscal year being 16 3/4 million dollars, against 5 million in 1910 and but $73,625 in 1909.

It would seem from these figures that if flaxseed has any curative qualities at all, the American people would have their medicine chests well stocked up, at least for a year to come.

That amount of flaxseed would cure all the boils in the world and cast out of the human eyes a young coal mine full of cinders.

POETRY FOR TODAY

A WOMAN IN A THUNDER STORM.

In times of trial women are,
The bravest creatures God has made,
They'll travel long and travel far,
Through fire and water they will wade
To help the men they love along
And keep their nerve and courage warm;
Yet I must sing another song,
Of woman in a thunder storm.

A woman in a thunder storm
Is not a source of joy or bliss;
When'er she speaks 'tis to inform
Of things she fears will go amiss.
Her cheeks turn pale, her lips turn blue,
And every time the thunders roll
She takes the nerve right out of you
By shrieking like a dying soul.

At every lightning flash she yips,
And jumps in terror, shrieking,
"Oh."
Her language seems to come in stripes,
She wrings her hands in fear and woe.
She wants to go somewhere and hide
And wonders if she ought to pray;
Then thinks of chairs she left outside,
And just knows they'll be blown away.

A woman in a thunder storm
Can think of more strange things to say,
"Does lightning mar the human form?"
"Aren't people blinded off that way?"
"If one were underneath a bed,
Would one be safer than right here?"
"Aren't people often stricker dead, Because their mirrors are too near?"

"That flash, I'll bet something struck near."
"If we were hit, what would you do?"
"There goes another crash. Oh dear, Please move the telephone from you."
"Put out the lights. No, turn them on."
"Lock up the knives and forks now, please."
And by this time your nerve is gone,
She's got you wobbly at your knees

198.—Did the sun actually stand still at the command of Joshua?

Answer.—Israel's great victory over the enemies of the Lord seemed likely to be interfered with by the going down of the sun, and several hours would elapse before the rising of the moon. Joshua was anxious to make the victory complete and commanded that the sunlight continue until the moon arose. The sunlight stood still, or continued upon the valley of Ajalon, beyond anything ever before known. This was a miracle and was especially intended of the Lord to encourage his people and to establish their faith in him. However, we are not to think of the sun itself as in any way changing its course, nor are we to think of the earth as slackening its speed. It was not the sun that stood still, but the sunlight that continued in the valley. How could this be effected? It could result from the refracting of the sun's rays through water-clouds. Many of us have seen the same light prolonged in the evening for an hour; the miracle in the case of Joshua was the greater prolongation of its light—until the rising of the moon.

SOME PARAGRAPHS ON ERRORS OF PARENTS

CAUGHT, after eluding the police for more than three months, a 16-year-old girl pleaded with the judge, a day or so ago, to be allowed to go free to earn her own living under an assumed name.

"Don't send me back home, judge," she said, tearfully. "The learning in this way, and—and at home—no one trusts me. You see, I eloped once with a boy I was in love with, and when they brought me home again, I was, they said, 'disgraced.' The other girls avoided me and mother never trusted me out of her sight. Everything I did seemed to be wrong. They never gave me a chance any more, and so I made up my mind to run away. I don't see why, just because a girl does one foolish thing, she should be branded for always, but it seems as if they are."

What could the judge do? His duty was to return the runaway to her parents' protection, yet the cry of the girl must have gone deep into his heart, for he sent a personal letter to the girl's parents suggesting a different attitude towards her.

Why should a girl always be branded? That is a question that has been asked over and over again by girls striving to win a new place in the trust and respect of others, and yet it has never been answered.

The Mother Should Blame Herself.

For it would seem that girls, to win love and affection and to be honored, must never stray for a minute from the path into which fate has set their feet.

But that pathway must be laid out for them first by mother hands, and girls should be too well trained, too close in touch with the mother to make foolish elopement, such as that other girl made, either a possibility or a probability. And once it is done, the mother should blame herself equally with the daughter, should show her trust, her belief in the girl's repentance, and a sympathy with the poignant discomfort of her position (as far as her former friends were concerned) and she should surround the girl with her love and tenderness and so prevent a second running away like that of the child I told of—for after all she is but little more than a child.

The fact that she felt her position, that it hurt her cruelly, and that she was plucky enough to get a position and work—as an investigation proved, she had worked cheerfully and bravely through those three months—should bring shame and regret to parents and friends, and not to the girl herself, but will it? That is the real question.

NO MISTAKE.

The Stranger:—Are you quite sure that was a marriage license you gave me last month?

The Official:—Of course! What's to be made of it?

The Stranger:—Well, I've lived a long life, and I've never seen a man so sure of himself as you are.

Our Grocery Clerk Says He's It Again

Did you ever notice the cold cashier's hair? Ah! she some blonde? And natural, too, I'd stake my life on it. The hair gave me another one of my brilliant ideas.

You know Juliet has turned down every gift I've ever had the nerve to slip her, but I thought if I could get a comb to match that classy hair of hers—I never saw a color like it in my short but eventful career—why, she couldn't help but be tickled. And, believe me, that color is some scarce in combs.

But at last, after wandering about every department store in the city, I got it. It cost me four bucks, but I got it, and it was a peach. I knew that if I went right up to Juliet, bowed, and made a little presentation speech, it would never do, so I pretended I'd found the thing. "Found a comb!" I sings, displaying it under her nose. "Who wants it?"

"I'll take it," she says, and, after she inspected it, "We've got a colored girl home that'll just go crazy about this."

Swat!

Going Some.

As the large man in the red sweater entered the luncheon room and seated himself at the little table the waiter placed a new record on the phonograph.

"What tune is that?" asked the new patron.

"When de Harvest Days Am Obah!" boomed, whispered the waiter. Dat gem'man am an leeman.

Presently another man entered and seated himself at the second table. On went a new record.

"What's that, Sam?" queried the new patron.

"Why, 'When de Harvest Days Hab Cum,' dat gem'man am a plumbah, sah."

Rather Strenuous.

"Stop this instant!" exclaimed the old lady as she passed the crowd of bad boys on the lot. "What do you mean by punishing that poor little boy?"

"We ain't punishing him, ma'am!" grinned the leader of the gang.

"But you are standing him on his head until he is black in the face."

"Dat ain't nuttin'. We are going to give a show in old man Dooley's back yard and we need a black-face comedian."

More Appropriate.

"Zeke writes that he has turned out to be an inventor," drawled the proud old farmer.

"Indeed," gasped his wife, dropping her knitting. "Real inventor?"

"That's what he says."

"For the land's sakes, Hiram!"

"No, for the water's sake, Mandy. It's a submarine boat."

Rather Hard.

The messenger entered the palace with the dispatches.

"Brimstone and asphalt!" ejaculated Castro, as he read the yellow slip. "He land threatens to spank us."

"Well, what of it, your excellency?" responded the secretary. "Other Nations have threatened to do the same."

"Yes, but confound it, this is a spanking that will hurt. The Dutch wear wooden shoes."

WINS FIGHT FOR LIFE.

It was a long and bloody battle for life that was waged by James B. Bershon, of Newark, N. J., of which he writes: "I had lost much blood from lung hemorrhages, and was very weak and run-down. For eight months I was unable to work. Death seemed close on my heels, when I began, three weeks ago, to use Dr. King's New Discovery. But it has helped me greatly. It is doing all that you claim." MAKING GRANDMA HAPPY.

Sunday School Teacher—I told you last Sunday that I wished each of you would try to make at least one person happy during the week. Did you?

Boy—Yes, miss; I made grandma happy.

That's noble. How did you do it?

"I went to visit her, and she's always happy when she sees I've got a good appetite."

A Mother's love the best love.
God's love the highest love. Come.

The Great Test of Democracy

Y N speaking of the democratic tendencies of this or that people or nation there is one essential test that is not generally appreciated or applied. The world at large is prone to believe that when the man who has trained his mind and lives by it is willing to hobnob with the manual toiler and call him his brother, the zenith of democratic ideals has been attained and there is nothing more to hope for. Even the laborers who live by their hands believe this.

It is not generally realized that the working man, in the accepted sense, is just as suspicious of the product of education and that which we call culture, and just as reticent and cautious about acknowledging the brotherhood of the class, of which he is not a member as the college man, for instance, is about fraternizing with the pick and shovel man. There is that same class antagonism.

It is on the basis of this theory that America seems especially wide-spread and spiritually sound at this time. Whatever the attitude of the intellectual aristocracy may be toward the great mass of people who depend upon the strength or activity of their hands and bodies for a livelihood, the working man seems to have attained a breadth of mind which at least regards the brain worker with tolerance.

Knowledge Given True Value.

Trade unions recognize the advantages of culture and institute courses and even university scholarships that they may absorb the purely cultural studies which their fathers delighted to hold up to contempt. They recognize that a man may still be honest and lack callousness on his palms, that a scholarly face and men are not always contemptible. The old engineer says to his helper: "Johnny, you're still young, why don't you save up your money and go to school. We know how much steam a pound of water will make but the only reason we know is because the boys who have gone to school tell us. When you get out you can run a whole lot like this instead of firing an engine."

The carpenter father of half a century back vowed that his youngsters should have no more learning than he had because he believed that too much schooling spoiled many a good carpenter.

The man who knows how to fit gas pipes in America now days does not look with sullen suspicion upon the man who can tell him of the theories of gas pressure and the physics and chemistry of plumbing; he simply looks you in the face squarely and says: "You've got one on me pal, without malice or envy. It is certainly a wholesome omen of progress, and the growth of the democratic spirit that this should be."

Now in England the aloofness of the working class which we seem to have shaken off in this country to a certain extent is troubling social reformers more than any other problem. The men who have been trying to keep Ruskin college at Oxford alive and active have discovered how vex and tangible is that esprit de classe.

Union Officers Refuse Aid.

Ruskin college was founded with the special purpose of reaching the working classes and making it possible for men of humble means to get university education. It was of course instituted by men of means and education and it was hoped that the labor unions would cooperate with the university in encouraging the poorer students to patronize the college. But the workers were at once suspicious and the trade union officers refused to encourage attendance at the college for the palpable reason that they feared when the better educated workers came back from the university equipped with sociological and practical knowledge about economic conditions they would naturally be given the offices at the head of the various unions and the old officials would be ousted.

In addition to this official prejudice the workers themselves have come to regard the university man as their natural enemy in England—it is the same old antagonism of town and gown carried out into broader spheres—and they looked with no little scorn upon what they considered an attempt to enslave their brightest leaders away from the union and destroy the solidarity of the unions.

That, fortunately, is what we have outgrown in this country, the working men are more tolerant with their other working man who employs his trained and regulated wits and in this there is the promise of more real democracy than in any other change which has come over the people since the popular mind revolted at the thought of slavery.

LATTER VISITS HER OLD HOME

is Accompanied by Detectives and Removes Personal Belongings to Room Furnished by Father, Who Continues Neutral in Delaware Poisoning Mystery—Alleged Victim Still Believes That Jealousy is Back of Attempt on Her Life.

Delaware, O., June 15. Following upon rumors of an insanity defense, Mrs. Way-Henkle made her first statement of the case from her point of view. The inevitable insinuations from the authorities having the case in charge and in face of positive statements of others seemingly in a position to know the truth.

Miss Henkle again expressed her belief that a "booby" was behind what ever part of the stepmother, Mrs. J. D. Henkle, now under arrest, may have had in the cause of her illness.

Never was a woman more agitated than Mrs. Henkle when told by a reporter that there were developments from the Wheeling end of the line and with almost panting breath she uttered: "Is it in my favor? Is it in my favor?"

Shown a dispatch that the body of her former husband, Edgar Way, might be exhumed and examined, she was visibly overcome, controlling herself only with the greatest effort.

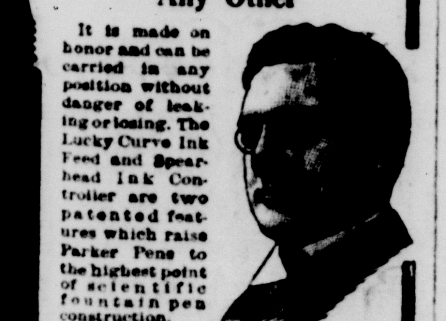

Tells of Husband's Death. "My husband died of lead poisoning, induced by his work as a typewriter operator. He had suffered from this trouble for months before he died, and had planned to give up his work because of it, but he never did."

Mrs. Henkle claims that her husband is standing up for her in the case, but this can not be verified from any other source. County detectives say the husband has not made up his mind what to do.

Acting on the alleged instruction of her father, Miss Henkle and the county detectives went to the Henkle home and removed all the property of the girl that could be removed. The father, it is said, told her to obtain a room and he would pay the expenses, which the girl proposes to do.

The Senate Confirms Negro Appointment

Lewis Lands Best Position Ever Handed His Race.

Washington, June 15.—As mists before the rising sun, the threatened opposition to the confirmation of William H. Lewis of Boston as assistant attorney general in the department of justice, in charge of Indian depredation claims, disappeared in the executive session of the senate and the nomination was confirmed in the most perfunctory manner, without debate or a demand for a rollcall.

There was something of a shock especially to the southern Democrats when the announcement was first made that President Taft had decided to nominate Lewis to that office. The nominee was a colored man and the statement was made that the office to which he was to be elevated was the most important ever bestowed on a colored man, that he would not only preside over a bureau made up of many intelligent clerks and subordinate officials, both male and female but that he would take a social rank at official receptions above many important civilian officers and would even outrank someone in the army and navy wearing shoulder straps.

Cincinnati, O., June 15.—A year and a day after she entered the Bethesda hospital, a helpless invalid Mrs. Jeannette Stewart Ford was taken into the courthouse in a wheel chair and gave her testimony on behalf of the state in the trial of Edgar S. Cooke, a former friend, indicted on the charge of having embezzled $24,000 from the Big Four railroad. She said Cooke gave her $22,000 in packages which she took to New York.

There were two indictments, containing in all 12 counts.

United States District Attorney French said to the court that he would not move for sentence at this time, but will recommend later that sentence be not imprisonment, but substantial fines. The maximum fine for each count is $1,000.

THREE YEARS AGO FAYETTE VOTED DRY OTHER COUNTIES MAY VOTE

Three years ago this fall, or to be exact, October 31st, 1908, Fayette county was voted dry under the County Local Option law, and with the approach of the coming fall when the county could vote again if it was the will of the people, it is very evident that no election will be called, and that the county will continue under the dry regime which has proven satisfactory.

At the election three years ago the drys cast 3,149 votes and the wets 1,171, two wards and Octa being the only places voting wet, so that it would appear in view of the fact that dry sentiment is stronger now than ever, that there is no possible chance for a wet victory.

However many of the counties will vote on the saloon question again this fall, and much interest centers in the result in many of the counties.

The counties of Clinton, Geauga, Harrison, Highland and Morgan were "dry" prior to the enactment of the Rose law and the following counties contain saloons but have not voted under the county law: Ashland, Auglaize, Butler, Crawford, Cuyahoga, Erie, Franklin, Hamilton, Henry, Lucas, Montgomery, Ottawa and Summit. Ashland county has but one saloon. The counties voting "wet" in the fall of 1908 gave majorities as follows:

Allen, 67; Defiance, 770; Fairfield, 328; Huron, 36; Lorain, 128; Mercer, 243; Richland, 58; Seneca, 1,438; Shelby, 897. The counties of Ross, Stark and Mahoning which voted in the spring of 1909 went "wet" by heavy majorities. The counties voting "dry" gave majorities as follows: Adams, 1953; Ashtabula, 2138; Athens, 1421; Belmont, 2367; Brown, 659; Carroll, 1364; Champaign, 2047; Clermont, 964; Columbiana, 1580; Coshocton, 584; Darke, 272; Delaware, 2148; Fayette, 1369; Fulton, 938; Gallia, 1687; Greene, 684; Guernsey, 2163; Hancock, 1897; Hardin, 2177; Hocking, 757; Holmes, 994; Jackson, 1675; Jefferson, 1820; Knox, 2484; Lake, 1589; Lawrence, 1525; Licking, 748; Logan, 1773; Madison, 1161; Marion, 1263; Medina, 1189; Meigs, 667; Miami, 1391; Monroe, 1154; Morrow, 2181; Muskingum, 1911; Noble, 1480; Paulding, 1134; Perry, 895; Pickaway, 299; Pike, 922; Portage, 1184; Preble, 1031; Sandusky, 515; Scioto, 231; Trumbull, 994; Tuscarawas, 944; Union, 1799; VanWert, 886; Vinton, 713; Warren, 139; Washington, 1348; Wayne, 899; Williams, 1694; Wood, 1392; Wyandot, 52. In the spring of 1909 Clark county voted dry by a majority of 139.

"Father's Day" On June 18

"What's the matter with father? He's all right!" At least, this must be so, for all over the United States preparations are being made to observe "Father's Day," which occurs on June 18th.

Mother has had her day. Several Sundays ago the whole day was given over to extolling her virtues and singing her praises, and the men applauded and approved every word that was uttered in her honor whether set to music or oratory. Now it is up to the mothers to fill the church pews on the 18th of June and listen to the other side of the story.

Father, as well as mother, deserves to hear the singing of his own praises once a year, for a man who is at the head of a family earns a brief respite from the daily grind. He may not be an angel without wings; he may not sing the babies to sleep at night or lead them in their evening prayers; he may not get up in the night to see if the kiddies have kicked off the covers; he may not even get up in time to light the fire in the kitchen stove or the sitting room grate; but it is he who foots the bills and from the fruit of his daily toil the household is maintained, while he does the worrying about making both ends meet.

"What's the matter with father? He's all right!" should be hung beside the old saying, "What is home without a mother."

On this day red flowers are to be worn if father is alive, and white flowers if he is dead. Roses are preferred.

Chillicothe Council Pays Old Account

The city council of Chillicothe at a meeting this week borrowed money and paid an old light bill of $11,000. For a long time the city has been holding back on the bill for street lights, and the payment of $11,000 was to compromise a claim of $13,340, for which the light company brought suit.

For benefit of the local council it might be stated that at the same meeting a franchise was granted the R. O. S. W. to lay a switch across a certain street, and the provision was made that the franchise could be annulled by giving two weeks' notice. Down in Chillicothe they have learned not to give the railroads everything they want.

Humphrey Jones Sells 1400 Sheep

Seven hundred of the sheep were shipped east by the Madison county buyers, and the remainder placed on pasture to be marketed later. Mr. Jones sold 50,000 pounds of wool a few weeks ago to Rothrock & Ustick, it will be recalled, and last spring had 900 lambs in one drove.

Board of Revision Takes First Trip

B. P. O. E. HONOR FLAG DAY IMPRESSIVE SERVICES AT THE CHILDREN'S HOME

With the triple purpose of honoring the nation's flag, of celebrating the anniversary of its birth and of signaling the achievements wrought beneath its folds, the Elks followed the custom of the order to hold a national flag day Wednesday and observed the day with impressive and beautiful ceremonies.

Departing from the established prestige of holding public exercises it had been decided to present the ritual of the flag day anniversary at the Children's Home, realizing that it would mean more inspiration in patriotism to those children than to the public at large.

Forty Elks drove out to the home in autos, from which waved flags and the national colors.

The afternoon's rain prevented holding the exercises on the grounds, which was a disappointment. The home was looking very beautiful with flowers blossoming on the green lawn, shrubbery and trees fresh in verdure and the main building and cottages as inviting and immaculate as perfect care could make them.

Supt. J. Austin Tway, with Mrs. Tway and daughters, Misses Alice and Elsa, gave the most cordial greeting beneath waving folds of old glory and the children, bright faced and neat, were expectantly seated in one of the large double parlors of the main building.

The Elks were seated in the parlor opposite, the hallway between being used for the exercises.

Exalted Ruler Jesse W. Smith presided and read the opening ritual service.

Rev. Campbell, of the Presbyterian church, followed with prayer, and the Elks' Glee Club sang the stirring songs of patriotism with excellent effect throughout the exercises.

Hon. T. W. Marchant gave impressive reading to the History of the Flag.

Mr. Frank Chaffin delivered the Elks' tribute to the flag and supplemented with original remarks of exceptional beauty, in appreciation of what the flag means to the nation and its homes.

Mr. Chaffin then presented, on behalf of the lodge, a silk flag to Supt. and Mrs. Tway and to each child a large flag and a lapel flag, as souvenirs of the first flag day at the home.

Upon request Rev. Campbell made a short and eloquent address, and closed the exercises with the benediction.

The Elks and residents of the home

Printer Crawford Discharges Nichols

Special to Herald.

Columbus, O., June 15th.—E. S. Nichols was today discharged as chief clerk by State Printer Crawford as a result of disagreement over bribery case against Nye in which Crawford was the chief witness for prosecution. Nichols' testimony flatly contradicted Crawford's. J. Thurman Millar, New Philadelphia newspaper man now working in Cleveland, was appointed by Crawford to fill vacancy occasioned by the discharge of Nichols.

The word "Terse" is a word that has an understood meaning nowadays. Shadwell in the fourth act of "The Humors" (1671) put this question into the mouth of one of his characters: "Must I stay till by the strength of terse cheer you have wet yourself into courage?" It is probably an allusion to what is still sometimes called "Dutch courage"—bravery inspired by alcohol. Charet was in those times imported in "terces," and "terse" may be a condensed form of that word; also "terse cheer" may have been a drink that did its business without any circumlocution, like the terse speaker or writer.

Circular Plates.

All our plates are circular in shape. Now, a square or oval plate would be just as convenient. Is there any reason why plates should be of their present shape? It seems that if we dip into the far past we may discover the cause. Our remote ancestors ate their food off flat pieces of wood cut from a tree trunk. The tree trunk being cylindrical in shape, the earliest plates were therefore roughly circular, and the shape has been used ever since.

The most sublime psalm that can be heard on this earth is the hissing of a human soul from the lips of childhood.—Victor Hugo.

IMP "The Chicago Stock Yards Fire."

Pronounced by expert critics to be the greatest fire picture ever produced. The big Stock Yards conflagration, that caused many deaths and rendered over 500 poor people homeless in the tenement district, entailing an enormous loss of property. The IMP camera man took many hazardous chances to film this scene while working near falling walls and in the midst of the shifting flames, which were driving back members of the fire department.

A picture that will thrill you through and through.

LEPROSY IN INDIA.

The "Untouchables" Reach the Lowest Depths of Human Woe.

The "untouchables" of India reside in little huts made of palm leaves or mud, without windows, and with a single doorway, usually so small that even a child must stoop in order to enter it, containing absolutely no furniture, except a few rudely baked earthen pots and pans. Generally there is no bedstead of any kind, the whole family sleeping huddled up on the bare dirt floor, which is commonly placed with cow dung. A few rags cover their persons, and these are worn night and day. Their financial condition precludes earning more than one meal a day, and this often more than not is far from hunger appeasing and is seldom calculated to appeal to the palate. For this wretched existence they must work hard and long hours.

On account of the filthy conditions in which they live disease is rampant among them. According to the latest census, eighty-eight out of every 100,000 people of the depressed classes are afflicted with leprosy. In the matter of education they are as deficient as they are in every other virtue. According to the report of the director general of public instruction of Bombay, barely five out of 1,000 of the pariah children of the presidency of school going age attend school.

In one word, these fifty-three odd millions of Hindus are not only socially but also intellectually, physically, financially and morally submerged.—Saint Nihal Singh in Southern Workman.

FREEZES THE LUNGS.

When Intensely Cold Air Is Breathed In Through the Mouth.

"I asked an Alaskan pioneer who was crossing to his old home in Sweden what happened when the thermometer goes down to 60 and 80 degrees below zero," said a Seattle man. "At 60 degrees below," he said, "the exposed ears, hands or nose will freeze in going a quarter of a mile under ordinary circumstances, but the children go to and come from school as usual without suffering from the cold, provided their faces and hands are protected."

"They soon get used to it. But caution must be used to avoid drawing the cold air into the lungs, and it is dangerous to breathe through the mouth. Along the coast, pneumonia brought on by freezing the lungs in this way, then from any other form of exposure. Horses are protected by breathing tubes, which extend down from the nose of the animal, about eighteen inches and are open at the bottom. The breath which is expired warms the air in the bag before it is inhaled and drawn into the lungs. And men wear a parka or hood which extends over the face and affords similar protection."

"In the Canadian districts the north west mounted police regulate the treatment of horses on the freight wagons and stage lines in a most humane manner, so as to prevent them from suffering in this way."—Washington Herald.

Peg Tankards.

The pegging or marking of drinking cups was introduced by St. Dunstan to check the intemperate habits of the times by preventing one man from taking a larger draft than his companions. But the device proved the means of increasing the evil it was intended to remedy, for, relying upon St. Dunstan's plan, the most abstemious were required to drink precisely a peg or pin, whether they could or not.

Columbus, O., June 15.—Attorney General Hogan withdrew an ouster suit filed by his predecessor, U. G. Denman, against the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., on the ground of violation of the anti-trust laws. Hogan said he knew of no one in Ohio who was interested in having the action pressed.

Mt. Gilead, O., June 15.—The board of education filed charges against F. J. Ryan, superintendent of schools. Eight counts are given in the charges and a hearing will be had on June 24. The disagreement grew out of the hiring of teachers and in the conduct of commencement exercises.

Open New Traction Line.

GOOD VENTILATION.

It Possesses an Actual Cash Value in the Workshop.

That proper ventilation in factories has an actual cash value has been well illustrated in the case of a firm of shirt and collar manufacturers in Berlin, Ont., where the following results have been obtained from four years' attention to the material welfare of the workers.

The amount of business made was doubled; wages increased 50 per cent, by cutting out "contingent help" the number of employees was reduced 20 per cent, the absences on account of sickness were reduced one-third. To the firm this meant that 430 employees did 90 per cent more work in one year than was accomplished by 522 employees in a similar period four years previous. To the workers it meant that 430 of them earned in twelve months $28,000 more than 522 did during a previous twelve months.

Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology made a study of the amount of illness prevailing among the female operators in the telephone central at Cambridge, Mass., before and after the installation of a system of artificial ventilation. The figures obtained by him show that during the two winters preceding the change, when doors and windows had to be kept closed, on the average about one girl in twenty was absent daily because of illness. During the corresponding months of the following year, when the ventilation had been materially improved, only one girl in fifty was absent from duty each day.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Painter's Retort.

Shortly after Franz Leubach had painted the portrait of Emperor Wilhelm I, a privy councillor called on him to express the emperor's satisfaction. There was only one criticism to make—would the professor be so kind as to paint more distinctly the buttons on the uniform, which were only indicated vaguely? Leubach looked at him a moment over his glasses and said: "Look here, Mr. Councillor, I paint heads, not buttons (ich mal' nur koepfe, aber keine knoepfe)." Tell his majesty that! The emperor when this answer was brought to him laughed heartily.

Hand Bags For Summer Girls.

The smart costume is considered in complete without a hand bag of gorgeous colors to accompany it. These bags are sometimes made of gayly brocaded satin, sometimes of tapestry, sometimes of beads. Others are of plain handsomely braided or hand embroidered. The shapes are variously square, oblong or round. They are generally finished with a handsome braid, a fancy strap and tassels or other ornaments at the corners. They are suspended from the arm by a stoken cord or fancy chain. The larger hand bags are generally referred to as reticules, although the name is by no means restricted to this size.

WHAT EXPERTS SAY OF FALL SILKS.

Satin Finishes and Messalines Listed For Popularity.

Broadly stated, a plain season is looked for, says the Dry Goods Economist in anticipating fall fashions. It is now thought that satins will duplicate the success of last season and that all satin finished silks will be taken up generally.

Messalines are everywhere mentioned as certain favorites and are offered in a wide range of qualities and in an assortment of vivid colors for foundation purposes. Satins in weights appropriate for jacket suits are well thought of in both New York and Paris. Reversible satins, especially are favorably mentioned, as the ultra novelty both here and abroad. This has naturally strengthened the position of satin finishes.

Crape netweaves have secured a permanent place in retail silk departments as well as in the estimation of costume manufacturers. This will be one of the weaves favored for fall.

It is now clear that velvets and marquisettes will duplicate the movement of one year ago so far as the American market is concerned, as the vogue of velvet effect has not yet reached high water mark.

Borders are retained by both foreign and domestic printers as the standard form of ornamentation for silks and satins. Many of the new borders are in monotone form and represent silk jacquard designs in soft colors on a variety of solid grounds, including light and dark shades of browns, blues, greens, grays and reds.

Following a Paris fashion, American silk manufacturers are producing glaze taffetas, which are offered for foundation purposes, over which chiffons and marquisettes are intended to be draped. Bright colors are chosen for foundations and linings, and in costumes the fancy color effect is intensified by harmonizing or contrasting colors for overdresses.

BEGGARS OF LONDON.

Many of Them Partial to the Hired Sickly Infant Scheme.

There is no city in Europe, according to an American citizen who has returned from a business trip to England, where there may be seen so many beggars in the streets as in the British metropolis, says the Washington Herald.

"These beggars—half blind, maimed—come for the most part from the 'beggars' colony,' the most lawless district in all London. It is hidden in the haze of mean streets in the borough of Kensington and is called Nottinghamdale.

"These 'tale pitchers,' as they call themselves, are men and women who hire starved looking children by the day to enlist the sympathy of the benevolent. There are 'old soldiers' and 'sailors' with bogus beards and records complete; there are 'shabby gentlemen' in tattered frock coats and carefully brushed broken boots, who talk of 'college days'; there are the musical beggars, who live by singing; there are the begging letter writers, and, finally, there are the beggars who solicit under the pretext of offering matches, collar buttons or shoe strings for sale.

"A 'tale pitcher' who knows the ropes can hire a sickly infant at the rate of about 12 cents a day. An unusually wretched looking infant will be dearer, but a whole family of neglected mites can be borrowed for 50 cents and no questions asked. Many of these professional beggars make as much as $4 a day."

Branding Him.

"Jim doesn't think much of me, I guess."

"Yes, he does, old man. Just the other day he told me you were a brick."

"I'm surprised."

"He went further than that. He said you were a regular gold brick!"—Toledo Blade.
